RETURNS THROWN OUT FOR IRREGU-LARITY AND ILLEGALITY.

Republican Supervisors Had the Registration. Books-Epes's Majority 1,614 in City-A. P. Hill Monument.

[Cel-dependence of the Richmond Dispatch.] PETERSBURG, VA., November 6, 1890. The Commissioners of Election for this The Commissioners of Election for this city met in the Clerk's office to-day to canvass the vote of Petersburg. The full board was present. The week-of-prayer services under the anspices of the Young Men's Christian Association will be commenced at the Washington-Street Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday. All of the Protestant denominations of the city will unite in these services, and the different minin these services, and the different ministers will aid in them. It was expected that Rev. A. R. Coodehild, former secretary of the association here, but now a minister of the Virginia Confernation. would be present to assist, but he has written that he cannot come. MONUMENT TO GENERAL A. P. HILL.

Rev. J. William Jones will deliver a Monday evening next, on the "Lafe and operation. Character of General A. P. Hill." The lecture is given under the auspices of the Confederate veterans of this city, who are raising a fund for the creetic this great General, who lost his life on the outskirts of Petersburg on the day before the evacuation of the city. Dr. Jones's lecture is to be given in aid of this cause. From the sale of tickets to this date it is expected that Dr. Jones will have a great audience to hear him. A SHUE NEORO.

John M. Langston, the defeated can didate for Congress, is sick—probably as much so in mind as in body. The returns from the district were of a character to make any man sick who had claimed a great majority for bimself and found in the result several thousand ma-jority against him. The people are not only laughing at his claims, but ridiculing the idea of his making a contest. The heaviest Republican precinct in Din-widdie county only gave Langston about 28 majority. Epes carries the county by between 100 and 200.

The aggregate sales were between $28,-000 and $50,000. The purchasers were from Richmond, Petersburg, Bedford City, Roanoise, and the Southwest. This was the first public land sale in this vicinity, and it is a very themselves as greatly pleased with the advantages offered here for profitable inby taking options on valuable property in the vicinity. BAILBOAD CONNECTIONS. Meeting these two roads at Norton will come at the same date, the great Norfolk and Western road tapping here the same untold wealth of coal and iron. These three roads will in themselves do a great work for this country. But they are not to have all to themselves. Other lines are pressing to the same point, and it will not be long before there is a chorns of engine-whistles from the four quarters of our country. I also visited on horseback the iron-mines on Walden's ridge, and got a full view here and there of the great forests which are furnishing already, and must for years continue to furnish, untold tonnage for the world's lumber market. I had heard about it, but to see it is to be convinced of na-ture's prodigality in all this vicinity of

There is a great demand for business-houses and residences. There is one church building—the Baptist, Rev. J. M. The stories of Butler's escapades are many. GROWING GLASGOW.

THE BEAUTIFUL CHILD OF THE ROCK BRIDGE COMPANY.

Its Birth, Its Healthfulness, and Its Sur roundings-The Company's Mineral Properties-Expert Testimony.

I wonder what one of those grizzled old captains of canal-boats who were plowman's or the cradier's rivalry, were dotted with stacks of wheat or shocks of corn, or specked with browsing cattle, he would see residences going up, factories rearing their chimneys, and the nucleus of a surging mass of humanity. Instead of the packet-horn, the notes of which ware worst to value the sphere of the s were wont to wake the echoes of the mountains, and which instrument is now, dences, &c. For example, lots that cost it would probably cost him a mental struggle to convince himself that he was above par. That these values will not laboring under a hallucination superinduced by splicing the stove-pipe once commence to come in from electric-light induced by splicing the stove-pipe once

But there would be no hallucination about the matter. The change is realistic in the highest degree, and in most pany has already sold in the present site of its factors is the work of but a few months. Eight months ago Glasgow, the place our ancient canal-boat captain of the tracts set aside for industrial purwould now gaze upon, existed only in poses and of the building property availname. At present it has a population of 800 souls. Within a few years, unless all the laws that conspire to build a city General Lee, the efficient president of M. P. Handy, it is said, is to be appointed Consul-General at Cairo, the post ast filled by the late Eugene Schuyler, one of the most accomplished men the American diplomatic service has had in the country, and will number its inhabitants by tens of thousands.

See Souls. Within a lew years, unless all the laws that conspire to build a city the Ceneral Lee, the efficient president of the company, does not receive letters from manufacturers North, South, East, and West inquiring as to the advantages of Glasgow, nor does a day pass that the does not receive a number of BIRTH AND GROWTH. with a picture of topographical loveliness, and at this season of the year especially, when the forests are putting on their most gorgeous tints, the whole country round about the place is one resplendent panorams. Nor has nature been less generous in bestowing material resources upon Glasgow and vicinity than in bestowing beanty upon them. It is easy enough to say that nature designed a certain blace for a great city, but it is quite a different thing to prove the assertion. Proof, however, that nature designed the location of Glasgow for a great industrial centre is ocular, is found in results of the efforts of the Rockbridge Com-

As a contract of the State Department to do it. their chief representative if it "broke" the State Department to do it. As a matter of fact Mr. Fish paid the draft out of the contingent fund of the State Department. Ben. Butler was at that time in the full flower of his influence, and Mr. Fish did not like to quarrel with him on his narrhy we second. with him on his nephew's account.

Young Butler made about seven times his salary by a very simple arrangement with Mourad Pasha, the governor of the which the Rockbridge Company pinned

The quantity of ores controlled by the Rockbridge Company is inexhaustible. The site of Glasgow proper embraces about 5,000 acres of land in what may be termed the triangle formed by the junction of the James and the North rivers, but this is a mere suggestion of the land owned by the Rockbridge Company, the mineral and other wealth of which will be made tributary to the development of Glasgow. The company possesses other immense tracts of land, the ores of which have passed the scrutiny of mineralogists, geologists, and mining experts. Included in their lands are the Glenwood property, the Echols property, and the Craig-Creek property, upon which specially interesting reports have been made. Among those who have visited these properties in a professional way is Mr. Kalph Moore, the eminent British expert for iron and coal in Scotland, who was sent to Glasgow by the English syndicate negotiating with the company to make an examination of and report upon the iron properties of the company. I am informed that no one stands higher in his profession than Mr. Moore, and that in consequence he has been employed fifteen times by English capitalists in examining land submitted to them for investment. It is also said that the company's property also said that the company's property is the first he has made a favorable report upon. His report is most favorable, not only as regards the quantity and quality of the ores on the company's lands, but as regards the advantages of Glasgow as the site for a great manufacturing city. Professor John R. Proctor, the well-known State geologist of Kentucky, has also reported upon the company's property, and his report is even more pronounced on its favorableness than Mr. Moore's. The Glenwood property is on the opposite side of James river from Glasgow, but in close proximity to it and embraces thirty thousand acres. It extends along James river for fifteen miles. From 2,500 to 3,000 acres of it, immediately adjacent to Glasgow and immediately adjacent to Glasgow and lying in the beautiful Elk Valley, are available for building and manufacturing purposes, and in the course of the natural progress of the new city will be absorbed by it. The rest, barring a few small clearings, is mountain land in forest. The ores on the Glenwood lands had been worked for years up to 1875, and Mr. Moore and Professor Proctor concur in giving them a high grade, and in respect of their immense extent. Professor Proctor, whose report is more in detail than Mr. Moore's, locates vari-ous kinds of committee land, and al-

ous kinds of ore on the land, and alludes especially to the excellence of some of it for the basic process. ACBOSS NORTH BIVER The Echols property is across North river from Glasgow, but also very close to it, and consists of 1,100 acres. The conditions here are the same as at Glenwood. The ore can be easily reached, and millions of tons of it cap, as from asc.

the Givewood tracts, be placed upon the furnace bank at $2 per ton.

CRAIG'S CREEK.

The Craigs-Creek property, 10,000 acres, is forty miles from Glasgow, on the Chesspeake and Ohio (Alleghany division) railway, and a branch that is now under construction. The ores are pronounced by Mr. Moore as valuable to mix with the Glenwood ores and will make excellent iron. "Practically," says this expert, "there are twelve million tons of ore there that can be landed at the furnaces at Glasgow at $2 per ton, or say $2.25 per ton."

COAL AND LIMISTONE.

Besides the above-mentioned and other iron properties, the company owns 7,900 TUNNICLIFFE & CO., Auctioneers, cres of coal land on New river on the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, 130 miles from Glagow. This coal is of the finest quality for domestic and cooking purses, and at Glasgow limestone for flux s abundant. In addition to this there are on the company's possessions c rock, glass-sand, pottery- and brick-clays, flag-stones, quarries of trap-rock, sand-stone, and other building material. The reports of both Mr. Moore and Pro-fessor Proctor are exceedingly interest-"prodigious!" would be the proper exclamation in the proper place. Where in his day were only the evidences of a bareafter. They show not only the hereafter. They show not only the richness in minerals of the company's cuiet farming life he would see the foundation of a great industrial city. WEST-END LAND BALES,
The beautiful property of the West-Find Land and Improvement Company, about sixty acres, located just west of the city, was sold at auction to-day. There were about 160 lots in all, which lest in the Secretary that his taste had been unimposechable, for heart were drawn for at a public distribution last night. The announcement of the sale attractes a crowd of some four of the surface and advice of the knocked accounts of the conditions necessary for the conditions necessary to the conditions necessary for the conditions necessary for the conditions necessary for the conditions necessary for the conditions necessary to the conditions necessary for the condition of the conditions necessary to the conditions necessary for the conditions necessary to the Connect of the foundation of such a city. "A printer who formerly worked in a ob office on Arapahoe street."
"I never heard of him before—never.

You see, about two months ago I sent my wife and the children back to their olks in Indiana. I was afraid she would disgrace us here, and wanted her to go home, where she could behave herself. I have written to her regularly since she left, and have sent her about $350 in cash. She ran through with all my pro-perty in a little while, and has cost me every cent I could make, and perhaps this will be a good thing for me. I shall apply for a divorce to-morrow. I don't want to make her any trouble; I only want her to let me alone after this. Why, only day before yesterday I had a letter from her saying she was visiting friends in St. Louis, I had thought all the time that she was in Indiana, but when I got that letter from St. Louis I became suspicious and wrote her a pretty sharp letter. Hillias is welcome to her. I'm sure." "But how about this statement that she is Frank Bowman's wife?' "Why, you see, Frank Bowman was a relative of mine, and she was familiar with all the details of the case. She is a shrewd, well-educated woman, and probably when your reporter called on her she invented the story about Frank's wife to quiet suspicion and save trouble with me. It was a shrewd dodge, and but for the publication no one would ever have been the wiser." Mr. Bowman is a very intelligent, bright-looking young man, and though he feels the ambiguity of the situation keenly he is disposed to take a philo-sophical view of the matter and profit by the opportunity to rid himself of a woman who has caused him nothing but trouble. " BIGGER " MAN THAN FORREST. Colonel Grangerfield, Sah, a More Daring
